SECTION 2 narrative

Governance Body

The City Council serves as the primary governing body with capital responsibilities. The Housing and Community Development Commission and Parks And Recreation Commission also have governance roles for their respective functional areas.

Executive

The City Manager's Office holds executive capital responsibilities. Department heads including Police, Fire, Fire Marshall's Office, Community Development, Parks and Recreation, Public Works, Public Works Administration, and Utilities report to this executive structure.

Finance/Procurement

Finance responsibilities are distributed across multiple entities: Accounting & Finance, Finance, and Finance Department. Procurement responsibilities are handled by Contracting & Purchasing, Purchasing, and Purchasing Division, with the latter two having separate procurement functions.

Public Works/Utilities/Facilities

Public Works and Public Works Administration manage construction capital projects. Utilities and Stormwater Engineering handle utility-related capital projects. Fire and Fire Marshall's Office manage fire department facilities.

CIP Project Approval and Procurement Process

The approval process for CIP projects is not confirmed in researched sources. Procurement appears to be centralized through Contracting & Purchasing, Purchasing, and Purchasing Division, with separate procurement functions for the latter two entities. The specific workflow for how projects move from initiation to approval to procurement is unknown based on the provided evidence.

Executive Account Summary

Municipality Overview: City of Columbia, Missouri operates under a Council-Manager governance model in Boone County. The city maintains a project portfolio of 108 total projects, with 43 currently active. [Confirmed]

Capital Pipeline: The city has 11 strong pre-RFQ opportunities and 15 possible pre-RFQ opportunities across various infrastructure disciplines. No specific capital investment pipeline value or planning period is confirmed in researched sources. [Confirmed]

Priorities by Infrastructure Domain: The strongest pre-RFQ opportunities are concentrated in electrical (3 projects), civil engineering (4 projects), and water (1 project) disciplines. Transportation planning and environmental engineering also feature among top opportunities. [Confirmed]

Credible Pre-RFQ Count: 11 strong pre-RFQ opportunities identified with immediate RFQ or consultant selection next steps. [Confirmed]

Incumbent Posture: No incumbent vendor information is available in researched sources. [Not confirmed in researched sources]

Next Validation Actions: Validate upcoming RFQ release dates for strong opportunities including "13.8 kV System - New Residential Services - E0116" and "BUSINESS LOOP 70 RCN 00923". Confirm current service providers for active water and civil engineering projects. [Inference]
